December 25

Linda found a 5-year-old boy on East Street. He was on a trip with his family, and he couldn't find the way back to his hotel. He only remembered one thing ---he was from a star. 41 After a search, we thought that it was the New Star Hotel. When we got there, the mother threw her arms around him and hugged him tight.

December 28

This evening, a boy walked into our 42. "Can I stay here tonight? I can't go home because I got a bad grade on my math test," he said. We prepared some hot food for him, and of course we called his parents to come right away. Cases like this happen sometimes. I don't understand. 43 Grades are not everything.

Tina is really angry because she found Ken, her brother, took her iPad away. He insisted he just forgot to tell her before he "borrowed" it. He told Tina not to make a mountain out of a molehill. "It's not a big deal. You shouldn't be angry about it," he said. As the days pass, Tina expects Ken to apologize; however, the apology never comes. In fact, Ken knows he made a mistake, but it's hard for him to say, "I'm sorry." He is afraid that apologizing will make him look weak.

Ken is not the only person that thinks that way, and that's why many people don't say sorry. Saying sorry doesn't make you weaker; on the other hand, it shows you have the strength to admit you did wrong and want to make up for your mistakes. When you apologize to people, they know that you understand their feelings, and your apology will bring you closer to them than before.

If you are not sure how to say sorry in the right way, here are some tips:

- * Do it in person and say it with words. Don't make excuses or say that other person is the problem; all you have to say is, "I'm sorry."
 - * Don't put off your apologies. Say you're sorry as soon as you find your words or actions hurt others.
 - * Apologies have to be real; they have to be from your heart. Say sorry because you want to, not because you have to.
 - * Tell others what you might do differently to keep yourself from doing the same thing in the future.
- People make mistakes that hurt others sometimes. Apologizing isn't easy, but it's very important for everyone to learn how to do it right.

Dear Jason,

I am so sorry that I went home so late tonight and didn't help you to pack the package. Sometimes I don't think I am a good wife. Hope everything will be fine on your business trip.

I was really sad this afternoon. I know it was not good, but I had a fight with a new customer today. She was not friendly when she came into my shop. Before we talked about what hairstyle she wanted, she started complaining about the price of a haircut. Then she wanted to pay less. This made me feel unhappy.

I always do my best for the customers and hope they will be satisfied with what I do on their hair. I won't ask them a higher price. The only thing I want is to make them pretty. But she didn't respect my job. In the end, I asked her to leave. I didn't want to spend time on her because there were more customers waiting for me. But she asked me to pay her some money for spending the bus fare to come to my shop. Fine, I gave her one hundred dollars for it. And I asked her not to come to my shop anymore. I won't respect any customer if he or she doesn't do the same thing to me. But some of my coworkers and customers think customers are first. What they say is always right. We should shut our mouth and do anything to meet their needs.

Okay, I am fine now. Don't worry about me. I just wanted to let you know what happened today. Give me a call when you arrive. I'll drive to the airport to pick you up. Love you

Jane
