Hailey Fort is a nine-year-old girl in the USA. She is a special girl not because she is very pretty or very smart. It is because she grew food for homeless people and built the shelters for them. She didn't have much money to buy food for those homeless people, so she decided to grow vegetables on her own. She gave the vegetables to the people in need. Her mom and her neighbors were moved and helped her grow the food. Later, she also learned to build houses for the poor people. Because of her kind behaviors, many people in her town began to care about these poor people. They donated seeds, books, and many other things to help the homeless people. Hailey's act is really a good example to show a small act can even change the world.
