On January 30, the World Health Organization (WHO) declared the new coronavirus (Covid-19) outbreak an international emergency. The officials said the outbreak might have resulted from human exposure to wild animals at a local market in Wuhan, China.

The virus can be easily spread from person to person through the air, physical contact, or touching surfaces with the virus on it. The virus makes people sick with a pneumonia-like illness with symptoms that include fever, cough, and difficulty breathing. Two other human coronaviruses are SARS and MERS.

With the coronavirus spreading across the world, every country is working to develop a vaccine against the virus. It is important to wash hands frequently with soap and water, not to touch your eyes, nose or mouth with unwashed hands, and practice good respiratory hygiene.
