Representatives for the men's and women's U.S. national teams signed their historic collective bargaining agreements with U.S. Soccer. The new contracts, which run through 2028, include equitable pay and treatment for appearances and tournament victories, revenue sharing and equitable distribution of World Cup prize money.

The U.S. women filed a federal gender discrimination lawsuit against U.S. Soccer in of FIFA prize money. American women received a $110,000 bonus for winning the 2019 World Cup. However, American men would have received $407,000 had they won in 2018. Now, the unions have agreed to pool FIFA's payments for the men's World Cup later this year and next year's Women's World Cup, as well as for the 2026 and 2027 tournaments.

美國男足跟女足國家隊的代表，與美國足

美國女足在二〇一九年以性別歧視為由，對美國足協提起聯邦訴訟。今年二月雙方達成和解，美國足協答應支付女足隊兩千四百萬美元。

過去在分配國際足總提供的獎金時，男女有所差異。美國女足在二〇一九年贏得世界盃冠軍，獲得十一萬美元獎金；然而要是美國男足在二〇一八年奪冠，獎金可上看四十萬七千美元。如今男女兩隊工會已同意，共
